It was used by our daughter, but, she hasnt needed it for a while, now that she has moved, she doesnt want it. I plugged it in, and it lights up. I put my hand on the glass part, and it did show up on the wall. I didnt have those things that you use on them with the written material to check it. There are two doors that open underneath it and swing back with the legs for it to stand on. The plug and overhead arm are also tucked inside.

You turn the knob on the side and it brings out the arm and you can adjust it to where you need it. It comes with a vinyl or plastic cover that slips down over top of it with a hole for the handle to come through for carrying it. The cover has some small holes in it, and a mark where something was crossed out on it, maybe. It is about 6 inches without the legs opened up on it. Some of this frame is peeling, it is on the inside, I do not know if it can be fixed or if it is needed. You would have to take it apart to do that, and I did not want to try doing that. There is also a socket on the side for a 3 pronged cord, but, this only has the cord that is attached to it underneath that pugs into the wall to make it work. I really do not know much about these things, and again, it is being sold AS IS, and hasnt been used in a while. Please use the postal calculator to determine the cost of postage to the U. S.
